

Benjamin Block
Senior Analyst - Ardsley Partners Renewable Energy Strategy

Prior to joining Ardsley Partners, Mr. Block spent several years with Soliance Networks, a joint venture of Sempra Energy, where he authored and managed systems that controlled end-to-end utility transactions. In this role, his operation received special commendation from the Georgia Public Utility Commission. Prior to that, Mr. Block had spent time with a start-up engaged in silicon wafer purification that was ultimately acquired by Allied Signal. Ben has also done academic research in phototrophic energy sources. In Spring 2007, Ben received the St. Gallen Wings of Excellence Award for a treatise on renewable energy in emerging markets. Ben has also been honored with the American Academy of Achievement's Golden Scroll Award.

Mr. Block received an MBA with honors in Finance and Economics from New York University's Stern School of Business and BA in Physics from the University of California, San Diego.